What is the purpose of a brand book?

A brand book takes your company's mission, vision, values and translates them into a set of design rules. It tells how to use and communicate your brand to the public and ensures a continuous brand experience.

Thank you

For taking care of Clozure's look and feel. Kings Crest Global was responsible for making this brand book. If you have any inquiries, please send us a note at info@kingscrestglobal.com.

Tone of Voice

Tone of Voice

One Source of Truth

When everyone on the team is aligned on TOV, every audience interaction feels cohesive and truly you.

By using clear guidelines as a foundation, you'll avoid dull, off-brand language and cultivate a voice that's professional yet approachable, funny yet respectful—reflecting your unique identity.

Two Tones

- The App's Copy: Wise Leader
- Coda's copy: Energetic Sidekick

The app copy provides structure. Coda provides engagement. Together, they make legacy planning feel meaningful, easy, and affirming.

Wise Leader

Closure's Primary Direction

The Wise Leader is confident, experienced, and no-nonsense, yet always compassionate. She has seen it all and knows exactly how to help users on their journey.

Her voice is direct and supportive. She provides affirmation without pressure, guiding users through the process in a way that feels empowering, mature, and meaningful.

Personality

- Capable – The user is in safe hands. Every message instills trust and composure.
- Clear – No unnecessary fluff. The focus is on practical, structured guidance.
- Human – The process is emotional; the Wise Leader leads with heart.
- Empowering – Users are making big decisions, and every message should make them feel capable, not burdened.

How It Sounds

- Voice: Simple, direct guidance without sugarcoating.
- Address style: Refers to Clozure as "Clozure" and "we" – "Clozure is here to help. We believe in xyz." Refers to user as "you".
- Sentence Structure: Short, actionable, and directive (e.g., "Upload your document," "Review your choices").
- Phrasing Style: Offers structure, not demands: "Start here, then move on to..." vs. "You must..."
- Encouragement: Balances sincerity with firmness ("You've got this; let's move forward.").
- Verbs: Leads with verbs and clarity: "Upload," "Organize," "Designate," "Review."
- Simple Language: Uses plain, accessible language that all users can understand.
- Clear Transitions: Smoothly guides users from one step to the next. Example: "Once you've completed this step, move on to..."

Self-Planning

Planning for Others

- 1. Reflecting on how you want to be remembered can feel daunting, but it's a powerful step. Gather photos, stories, and personal touches here, creating a lasting tribute that's uniquely yours*
- 2. Nicely done. You've taken real steps that many folks never get around to. If you want to fine-tune anything, just tap 'Review.' Otherwise, let's keep going.*
- 3. Think about your dad's online accounts—everything from social media to banking apps. We'll store his usernames, backup codes, and any notes so the right people can find them if the unexpected happens.*
- 4. Great progress so far. Whenever you're ready, let's talk legacy contacts—those folks who'll have your back when it counts most.*

Wise Leader in Action – User Group Breakdown

User Group	Primary Needs & Mindset	Tone Adjustments	Example
Pre-Death (Self – Planning Own Legacy)	Wants to organize own affairs proactively	Affirming, structured, compassionate. Emphasizes control and personal choice.	“Your story, your way. What matters most to you right now? We can start with capturing your memories, sharing your wishes or organizing the practicals.”
Pre-Death (Doing on Behalf of a Loved One)	Balancing logistics and emotions, often out of responsibility	Reassuring, empathetic, and clear. Reinforces that this process makes things easier for the future.	“Caring for someone else’s future can be emotional and overwhelming. Drop the key details here so everything is accessible when you need it.”
Post-Death (Managing for a Deceased Person)	Navigating grief and logistics under time constraints	Gentle, steady, and solution- oriented. Avoids overwhelming the user but provides clear next steps.	“Handling these details can feel like a lot, but you don’t have to do everything at once. Start where it feels right, and we’ll guide you through the process.”

Wise Leader in Action – Channel Breakdown

Channel	Tone Priority	Tone Adjustments	Example
App Copy (User Experience)	Clear, Reassuring, Non-Directive	Brief, guided explanations.	"Hello, Caleb. Some messages are meant for later. Leave words, stories, or reminders for the people who matter most—ready for when they need them."
Email (Engagement & Retention)	Supportive, Encouraging, Informative	Warm, structured paragraphs with clear CTAs.	"Subject: 'You're Making Great Progress. Here's What's Next' Body: 'Beautiful work so far. Whenever you're ready, take a look at your saved notes to see what feels right.'"
Social Media (Brand Presence & Community)	Approachable, Thoughtful, Conversational	More human, storytelling-based, with light engagement hooks.	"Legacy is more than paperwork. It's the stories, values, and moments we leave behind. What's something small but meaningful you'd want people to remember?"
Help & Support (FAQs, Guides)	Direct, Assuring, Actionable	Clear, structured, step-by-step.	"If you ever need to update your preferences, just go to [Settings] and select 'Edit.' Need help? We're here."

Tone Adjustment: To Keep in Mind

Maintain Consistency While Adapting the Tone

By understanding how the Wise Leader's voice flexes across different touchpoints, Clozure ensures users feel supported at every step of their journey, wherever they interact with the brand.

- Keep the core personality intact—always calm, confident, and reassuring.
- Adjust language length, engagement style, and depth depending on the user's mindset in each user journey.
- Avoid conflicting tones. Social media may be more conversational, for example, but never so different that it undermines trust and brand consistency.

Energetic Sidekick

Coda's Direction

Coda is the energetic sidekick – that spark of curiosity and momentum in the Clozure experience. He's here to deepen the journey, helping users see the bigger picture while keeping things personal, engaging and meaningful.

His role is to inject energy and insight, making the process feel exploratory rather than daunting. Through encouragement, thought-provoking questions, and a conversational style, he helps users engage with the process in a way that feels fun and reflective.

Personality

- Upbeat – High-energy, conversational, and always moving things forward.
- Motivating – Keeps users engaged with quick, punchy affirmations.
- Whimsical – Uses light humor, fun metaphors, and occasional bird puns to keep things engaging.
- Curious – Asks intriguing questions that invite users to explore thoughts and memories.

TONE BREAKDOWN

How It Sounds

- Voice: Playful, high-energy, and full of curiosity. Coda asks questions that spark reflection while keeping the process engaging and light.
- Address style: Talks directly to the user as "you," making every interaction feel personal. Coda doesn't speak for Clozure—he's your companion on this journey.
- Sentence Structure: Quick, conversational, and inviting (e.g., "Think back to a moment that shaped you," "Let's uncover something meaningful").
- Phrasing Style: Frames everything as an invitation to explore rather than an instruction. (e.g., "What's a story worth saving?" vs. "Enter your story here.").
- Encouragement: Keeps energy high with lively affirmations ("You're onto something great! Let's keep going!"). Balances fun with meaningful reflection ("This is what makes your story yours—keep adding to it.").
- Verbs: Leads with momentum-driven action words: "Discover," "Reflect," "Capture," "Share." Keeps movement and curiosity alive.
- Simple Language: Conversational, accessible, and full of warmth and personality. Every message should feel like it's coming from an enthusiastic, thoughtful guide

Self-Planning

Planning for Others

- Whoa, that's an amazing detail. Let's dig a little deeper—what else stands out?
- This is the kind of stuff that makes your story truly yours. Keep it coming, friend.
- Big stories, small steps. This is how we do it. Ready to answer the first question?
- Some of the best memories live in the tiniest details. Let's uncover more!
- Hey, I was just thinking... you mentioned [a memory, a person, an object] last time. Want to add more to that?
- You're doing great. Keep those wings steady and keep going!
- You just made things easier for the people who matter most. That's a big deal.
- Keep soaring!
- If you ever need to find something fast, just peck the 'Documents' tab.
- Some folks like to start with a favorite photo. That birthday party, sunny vacation, wedding. Anything fly to mind?

Sense of Humour

Coda's humor is a tool. It keeps users engaged, makes big concepts feel accessible, and adds personality to the experience.

- Breaks the Ice: Coda knows when a little levity can ease hesitation. A quick quip makes things feel more inviting.
- Adds Surprise & Delight: He drops in unexpected, lighthearted moments that make the process feel fresh and enjoyable.

Supports the Message (Not Distracts): His humor never pulls focus—it reinforces ideas and helps users connect with the process in a way that feels natural.

Sense of Humour

Playful Self-Awareness

Coda knows he's a bird and he's got no problem leaning into it. These jokes make him feel relatable.

"I may not have pockets, but I know a thing or two about holding onto important things."

"People always talk about having a bird's-eye view. I just call it looking where I'm going."

"Planning ahead? Nice. I learned the hard way not to wing it."

"Some birds just mimic what they're told. (I'm looking at you, parrots). Not me—I'm here to help you find the words that actually stick."

Observational & Legacy-Themed

Coda finds humor in the world around him, especially when it comes to the way people think about legacy.

"Ever notice how people pass down recipes, but somehow forget to write down the best family stories? Let's fix that."

"People say 'you can't take it with you'—but no one ever mentions how much stuff they leave behind for their family to sort through."

Wordplay & Light Puns

A little wordplay keeps things engaging—just enough to be fun.

"Let's ruffle some feathers—in a good way. What's a story worth sharing? Or even better – what story do you never want told?"

"Some say 'fortune favors the bold,' but I say it favors the well-prepared. Now that's a cardinal rule."

Coda in Action – User Group Breakdown

User Group	Primary Needs & Mindset	Tone Adjustments	Example
Pre-Death (Self – Planning Own Legacy)	Wants to organize own affairs proactively	Curious, engaging, and motivating. Encourages storytelling and personal reflection in a way that feels natural and inviting.	“Your story, your way. What matters most to you right now? We can start with capturing your memories, sharing your wishes or organizing the practicals.”
Pre-Death (Doing on Behalf of a Loved One)	Balancing logistics and emotions, often out of responsibility	Supportive, thoughtful, and gently prompting. Helps users capture details that celebrate the person’s life and values.	Hey, you’re back! Good to see you. I’ve been wondering... what’s one thing about Maria that always makes you smile?
Post-Death (Managing for a Deceased Person)	Navigating grief and logistics under time constraints	Gentle, inviting, and open-ended. Creates space for remembrance without pressure, focusing on the person’s impact.	Keeping everything in one place means no last-minute headache. Want to start with Maria’s will, or another important document?

Do's and Don'ts

Do

Speak Honestly About Death

Use plain language like "death," "dying," or "end-of-life." Don't downplay the topic.

Acknowledge Feelings Gently

Validate how heavy or overwhelming the process can be.

Offer Options & Empower Users

Provide actionable suggestions, let them choose what feels right.

Focus on Support & Guidance

Keep the tone empathetic, warm, and informative.

Celebrate Small Wins

Reinforce progress. Let users know it's okay to take it slow.

Don't

- "I understand."
- "We provided closure."
- "I know how you feel."
- "So, what, we are all going to die one day."
- "It is all just a part of life."
- "Everything happens for a reason."
- "At least they lived a long time."
- "Time heals all wounds."
- "You need to be strong."
- "Don't cry."
- "You should be over it soon."
- "It just takes time to get over it."
- "It will get better."
- "It's time to stop mourning and move on."
- "I know someone who went through this."
- "Let's not dwell on the negative."
- "Your loved ones won't want you to suffer."
- "You should just let it go and move on."

- "You are not the only one who's gone through this."
- "Try not to think about it too much."
- "It is their time to go."
- "You'll be ok."
- "This may be a wake-up call."
- "Let's not dwell on the sadness."
- "This is too complicated."
- "No!" (Too abrupt or dismissive)
- "Just have a simple service."
- "Everything is done and paid for."
- "This seems selfish."
- "Just let them do something spontaneous."
- "It's not like you are going to die tomorrow."
- "Plenty of people will help."
- "Don't let this consume your thoughts."
- "Just trust me."

Logo

Logo

The logo contains the logomark and the wordmark. Both elements have been exactly positioned and proportionally fine-tuned. The logo is the primary asset of the brand.

Logomark

A logomark is an identifying mark or symbol that doesn't contain the business name. It should be used in small applications such as social media profile pictures.

LOGO

LOGO MARK

Logo Suite

The creation of a complete and comprehensive brand involves the production of different versions of our logo. These marks are typically used in response to specific space requirements of a layout.

We will use the vertical version of the brand with tagline for brand introduction moments. Preferably in narrower spaces.

The horizontal version is more pragmatic, technical documentation and more functional applications.

EXAMPLE

For a billboard, it is necessary to use a landscape version of the logo to ensure optimal brand legibility. Given that the canvas is a wide but not tall space, a horizontal version will guarantee the best result.

STACKED VERSION

HORIZONTAL VERSION

Logo versions

The main logo will be the first choice. This ensures the colors of the corporate identity are represented.

But it's necessary a negative version for when its visibility is at stake. That would be usually on solid color backgrounds as well as on photography. Be cautious about the readability when used on a photo.

Clearspace

It's important to maintain proper spacing around the logo to avoid overcrowding. Also, the use of whitespace keeps the brand feeling clean.

Minimum Size

When significantly reduced, the logo will become illegible. These are the pixel size units we recommend staying within to preserve quality of the logo.

Don't

Don't skew horizontally

Don't skew vertically

Don't rotate

Don't rearrange

Don't change brand colors

Don't use strokes

Don't box the logo

Don't move logomark

Don't change spacing

Color

We use color to capture the full tonal range of every sky you can imagine. Aligning our playful character with a palette that we can truly own.

Primary palette

Our core colors build on and maintain brand recognition.

There’s a lot more to it than just blue skies.
Our brand has a visual centre but it’s also quite colourful like the skies around us.

Logo + Color

The logo should be displayed in its main version on beige, off white, white and possibly on other very light backgrounds. On colorful and dark backgrounds, the logo should be displayed in white to ensure legibility.

Logomark + Color

Exceptions

When we need to use our main logo mark over not recommended color backgrounds or busy images, we can show our logomark its secondary form.

Typography

Our well-chosen typefaces have enormous importance in every setting, from digital to outdoor advertising, and they help deliver compelling and emotive messages that connect with our users.

Fonts

Averia Serif Libre should be used for headlines and Figtree regular for body text. Every brand asset or collateral should be made using these fonts.

Photography

Imagery should be in color and show landscapes in detail (zoom in), preferably with no people in them. Blue skies and sunsets are the main motif here, but other clean, calming environments can work too.

Illustration

Coda is your colourful, friendly 3D Brand Mascot and should always be shown in 3D, never as a 2D character.

The character is usually "naked" (as nature intended!) but has topical outfits and props that he wears and uses when talking about certain topics, or doing certain emotes.

Illustration

Coda uses a lot of the same rules as the logo mark.

When the background is colourful, Coda should be displayed in front of a circle of either beige or a lighter saturation of the background colour. When he is on a neutral background, he does not need the circle at all.

Coda should be displayed along side the cooler brand colours and not the warmer reds or oranges, for contrast and impact.

Illustration

Coda's clothing and props are simple and not overdone, but with impactful details and realistic textures.

Where possible his clothes and props should have consistent touches of the brand colours, so as to not overcomplicate the palette.
